HONGKONG DOCKS HARBOR NOTES HARRISON LINE

RECEIVE 1370 SHIPS A DAY

More than a half million vessels entered Hongkong, the British naval and colonial base in south China, in 1914, is the report made by the United States consul to Washington.

All German ships, embodying the third largest tonnage of any nation entering Hongkong, and all ships of Austria-Hungary, which embodied the fifth largest national tonnage entering the harbor in normal years, were entirely shut out of the port of Hongkong after the beginning of the war in Europe. A large share of British and other European shipping normally calling at Hongkong has been engaged elsewhere in matters relating to the war and has been taken from the ordinary course of shipping in the Far East. Notwithstanding these facts the total number of ships actually entering the port in 1914 was larger than in previous years, while the total tonnage showed a comparative decrease. The total number of entries of vessels in the year was 517,539, an average of 1370 per day, as compared with 490,228 the year before, while the tonnage was 36,756,951, as compared with 37,742,982 in 1913.

The change in these figures is due to the fact that by reason of war conditions and war regulations more junks engaged in coast and river traffic were forced to regular entry, such vessels making up all loss in the number of vessels entered and accounting for the increase of 27,311 entries, and also reducing loss of tonnage to 986,031.

After bringing the schooner Omega with a cargo of lumber safely into port from Puget Sound, Captain Ralph E. Peasley will return to the north Pacific coast in the steamer Makura. He is expected to command another lumber schooner.

LOSSES DOZEN SHIPS

The Harrison Direct Line, whose freighters until two years ago maintained a service to the Hawaiian islands, have lost heavily in tonnage through the submarine warfare conducted by the Teutonic allies. Steamers belonging to this line brought European cargo to Honolulu and usually departed with consignments of preserved pines for delivery to the United Kingdom and the Continent. Officers in the British steamer Chinese Prince at Honolulu a few days ago, reported that by the sinking of the steamers Centurion and Candidate by German submarines the Harrison Line have now lost five ships as a result of the war. The Harrison liner, Diplomat was sunk last year in the Indian ocean by the Emden, the Wayfarer was recently torpedoed off the British coast, but succeeded in subsequently making port in a damaged condition, and the Crown of Castile, which is owned by Messrs. Prentice, Service & Henderson of Glasgow, who, jointly with the Harrison Line, maintain the Harrison Direct Service, was also sunk recently by a submarine.

The American-Hawaiian freighter Mexican, from New York by way of Seattle, will leave more than 2000 tons of general cargo at Honolulu. It is due tomorrow or Sunday. Before steaming from Hilo to the east coast of the United States it will load 11,500 tons of sugar.

The Japanese freighter Gishun Maru, now reported on route to Honolulu from Panama canal, is said to carry cargo from the east coast of the mainland for delivery to China and Japan. It was passed some days ago by the British steamer Chinese Prince.

Now cleaned and repainted, the huge floating crane which remained some days on the Inter-Island drydock is awaiting a tow to Pearl Harbor. It will be returned to the naval station by the tug Navajo.

To deliver 8000 sacks of sugar supplied at Kaula ports, the Inter-Island steamer Maui is an arrival at the port yesterday. The vessel brought 64 empties and a small amount of sundries. The vessel steamed through moderate seas.
